SENIOR BLOTTER

Foreword

The Class of '26 presents this book to regild the golden hours of High School days lest they become tarnished and dulled by time.

SENIOR BLOTTER

To our classmate John Plaiss, the Class of '26 dedicates this Blotter as a token of admiration for his indomitable courage and as an expression of our affection.

Au Revoir

To our friends and underclassmen
Whom we must leave behind,
We give our warmest wishes for
Success of the finest kind.

We thought it was the thing to do,
To fool and shun you, too;
But found too late that you could be
Good friends both kind and true.

To you we leave with saddened hearts
The school we've loved so long.
Her glories, honors, friendships true,
Will, still, be memory's song.

Although we fain would longer stay
In scenes we love so well,
Yet there is need that we should go;
So, now, we say farewell.

—Elizabeth Barth.

ATHLETIC RESUME

The 1925-26 athletic season for N. A. H. S. was not the most successful in the history of the school. Coach Kraemer did not have the material he had had the year before, but he had very much stronger opposition. The football season, however, ended in a flare of glory and the school holds it a successful year. The basketball schedule ended with a defeat by the Bedford High School Five, but N. A. H. S. was sectional champ and fans are pleased.

Of the nine games on the grid card, six were victories. Two of the losses were by 7 to 0 scores. A lucky get-away in the third quarter of the K. M. I. battle gave the Soldiers the decision. An intercepted pass and an open field allowed Cathedral High of Indianapolis to score a lone touchdown and win from the Bulldogs on the slippery Washington Park Field. Owensboro was the only eleven that decisively defeated the Black and Crimson.

Of the victories, the St. Mary's defeat was the most gratifying. In the first three minutes of play the Kentuckians scored a touchdown and kicked goal. In the next three minutes, the Bulldogs tied the score and later added two touchdowns and a kicked goal. The St. Xavier game was played in a driving rain and a sea of mud. The Bulldogs swam through for a 13 to 12 victory.

By taking the first Jeff game, the Bulldogs won permanent possession of the Switow Cup.

The team worked well together, and under the brilliant leadership of Captain Tucker acquitted itself to its credit and to the honor of the school.

The basketball season was almost a repetition of the 1924-25 season. The quintet won and lost games on the regular schedule, but when the time came for the sectional tournament, the Bulldog Five settled down and came through the tourney, Sectional Champs.

Two victories over Male High in the regular season were most pleasing to New Albany fans.

Although the season ended with the Bulldogs carrying but twelve victories to balance twelve losses, they played good basketball against stronger teams than they had for many seasons.

The defeat of the Jeff Red Devils in the final minute of the final game of the sectional tournament was the anti-climax of the season. While the Bulldogs did lose at Bedford in the regional, they were beaten by a team that made an exceptionally high bid for the State Championship. The Bulldogs made the Stone City basketmen extend themselves to win 27-15. The Bedford defeat, however, matters comparatively little when one considers that New Albany won from Jeffersonville in the tournament to gain the Moser Trophy and remain Sectional Champ.

What was said of the football team, must be said of Captain Stroud and his basketball team. They acquitted themselves to their credit and the honor of the school.

More than the teams themselves entered into the success of the season. Credit is due Mr. Gelbach, Mr. Gribble, business manager, those who assisted him, Elmer Downs and Don Short, who were always on the job to lead the cheering rooters, and the fans themselves who helped so materially to make the 1925-26 athletic season a success.

The season marks the third year that Coach John J. Kraemer has guided the athletic destinies of the Black and Crimson, and we sincerely hope he will return next year.

A. B. C.

When the Senior Girls organized, February 19th, they called themselves the A. B. C.'s. In spite of their childish name, who can say they are not a very dignified group of girls?

On February 2nd there were seen many Martha Washingtons with powdered hair and white fichus and aprons. The girls all looked pretty, indeed, and the gallant George himself would have surely sat up and taken notice.

The girls gave a "tacky" party, May 12th, at the home of Jean Shrader. A prize was awarded to the one having the "tackiest" costume.

On May 17th the girls rode to Duncan on the train and hiked back. Just ask them if they can fry bacon and eggs. Of course they can, for why did they call themselves the ANTI-BACHELOR CLUB?

Executive Committee:—Ruth Short, Chairman; Georgia Lee Vausha, and Merylee Oglesby. Critics:—Miss Wood and Mrs. Pritz.

S. O. C. K.

The initials S. O. C. K. form the nom de plume of the Senior Boys' Organization of 1926.

When asked by anyone the meaning of our name, we would sock them, thereby explaining the name in a practical manner.

The boys were well socked up by an array of socks. A special Sock Day was set aside and they came to school wearing socks for head-dresses, handkerchiefs, neckwear, and a sock pinned on their backs.

The club "socked" the former mode of uniform dress of dark coats and light trousers by voting that each person wear whatever he chose.

"Sock" has been not only on the feet but also on the minds of all the underclassmen, but they could not interpret its meaning, which is "STUDENTS OF COLOSSAL KNOWLEDGE."

The Speaker Club has for its aim the promotion of charity, public speaking and interests in school activities. It has striven hard to accomplish these things this year.

At their annual Thanksgiving dinner the girls fed about one hundred and seventy-five little boys and girls, and turned a day that would have been dreary into a happy Thanksgiving for them.

The last day of school before Christmas vacation, they gave an unusually pleasing program, on a stage brightly lighted by a Christmas tree, loaded with gifts for the different members of the faculty. The characters in the playlet appeared from behind a large Mother Goose Book, and after Santa Claus left, the dolls came to life and danced.

The annual Speaker dinner was held on March 27. The lower hall was turned into a lovely flower garden, fenced with lattice work and spring flowers. Merylee Oglesby acted as toastmistress, while Georgia Lee Vausha, Ruth Short, Elizabeth Barth, and Mary Royse gave toasts. After the dinner the girls took their guests to the Elks Theatre.

Boosters Club

The Boosters Club has had a very successful year. Everyone responded fine to the appeal to buy our N. A. H. S. horns. The Boosters also tried to feed the hungry spectators by selling hot-dogs and candy at the stand on the athletic field. We supported our team and cooperated with them in every game.

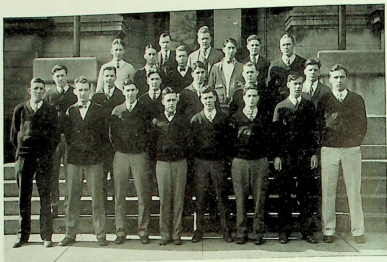

The sectional tournament held here was a big success. Old N. A. H. S. also won a name for herself for good sportsmanship at the regional at Bedford. Sportsmanship is the motto of the Boosters and we feel we have lived up to our motto to the greatest extent, causing the Boosters Club to have one of its most successful years.

The Mixed Glee Club was organized September, 1925, for the purpose of studying three part and four part choruses for improvement and entertainment.

Besides singing for assembly, the club's appearances were: Mid-year Commencement, January 21; Kiwanis Club Recital, April 1; Broadcasting Recital, April 15; Joint Recital with Bel Canto and Orchestra, second week in May. Operetta, "Belle of Barcelona," given January 14, 15, 16, in conjunction with Bel Canto Club and dancing class, and with the efficient help of several departments of the school, was a marked success, artistically, musically and financially.

Meetings were held just once a week, and the club feels that, in the press of social and scholastic activities, much was accomplished in that Wednesday afternoon session. The music studied was worth while, though not deep. The club dinner was held on Friday, May 14, followed by a theater party.

Laugh If You Can

Homer White—Do you know Shakespeare well?
Lee McManus—Aw, you can't kid me, Shakespeare's dead.

M. Long—Why does the quarterback wear glasses?
R. Short—So he can be a spectacular player.

Gramelspacher—If a burglar should break into the basement would the coal chute?
Nunemacher—No, but the kindling wood.

Alice Mae—But I thought you had a skating date with that fellow.
Agatha—Oh, that fell through.

Caesar—Why is Stroud limping?
Ted—He sat down on the spur of the moment.

Aileen—I've been trying to think of a word for two weeks.
Lucile Paris—Well, will "fortnight" do?

C. Breen—Have you told your girl you can't take her to the dance?
Penny—No, I thought I'd surprise her.

Ray Davis, Jr.—How about ten dollars, Dad?
Ray Davis, Sr.—No, son, you'd better keep it, you'll be broke next week.

Eugenia—Do you like hamburger balls?
Dorothy K.—I don't think I ever attended one.

Jane—Did you have a local anaesthetic?
Mary B.—No, I went to a hospital in Louisville.

Hostess—Really, I can't place you.
Roy D.—Oh, that's all right. I'll find a seat.

Freshie—Where are you from?
Mr. Gardner—South Dakota.
Freshie—My! You don't talk like a Southerner.

Venita—Can inanimate objects feel?
Emily—Well, my hat's felt.

Sport—Our halfback is about to kick off.
Lucille—How perfectly terrible! Was he injured in the last game?

Midge—What did you say?
Quinny—Nothing.
Midge—Of course, but how did you express it this time?

Miss Smith entering room—Order, please.
Absent-minded Elmer—Egg sandwich.

BEDTIME STORY BROADCAST FROM STATION N-A-H-S

One Day as I took a Long Walk into the country with a Reich Friend, I heard some Martin-s Merylee twittering in the Burch trees near a Ripple-ing Brook (s).

We Need to gather some velvety Moss and were horrified to discover stealthily sneaking from behind a Busch, Down(s) the Rough Lane, a prowling Wolfe bent upon destroying a Little White Lamb which was frisking near some Green Box Hedges.

My Friend Kraft-ily raised his Gunn—and fired!

The Wolfe, with a Bulleit wound in his side, gave a Short yelp of Payne and rolled over a Craig.

Crossing a Rice field a Horse(y), frightened by the chugging of a passing Brown Maxwell, while eating his Oates, raced past us to the Barnes.

We were at our wit's end, when we came to the cross Rhodes, for it would have taken a Wyzard or a Wiseman to pick the Wright way.

After a Long undecided Wate, we Hale-d the driver of a passing Mitchell who directed us through a Marsh and some Wood-s to the nearest Carr line.

I stumbled over a Stone and almost lost my fountain Penn, but recovered myself by holding to a Leaf-y branch.

Knight was falling as we Board-ed the Carr with Leuthart-s and visions of hot Coffey waiting for us at home.

When we reached our gate the Moon and evening Starr were shining brightly.

Mrs. Stokes (talking to music class)—Now, class, sing on counts 1 and 2 and rest on 3 and 4.

Katty Hargraves—Why, Mrs. Stokes, let's sing. I'm not tired.

Should Mabel Packwood when she Cantwell do it?

Mary Royse—Oh Dear!

Jack Bulliet—Calling me?

Miss Day—What kind of candy should I buy?

Clerk Bulliet—This is good. I've just eaten it.

Mr. Cantwell—Now, class, it is the law of gravity that keeps us on this earth.

Edson Starr—But how did we stick on before the law was passed?

Ted Stanley—Shall we waltz?

She—It's all the same to me.

Ted—So I've noticed.

Miss Rusk—This room left the class very filthy yesterday.

Lucille Hegewald—Is your Studebaker friend coming tonight?
Ruth Short—No, this is "Willys" (K) night.

Thomas Gordon—I get twice as much sleep as you get.
Jack Amster—You ought to, you carry more subjects than I do.

Martha Proctor—I made a faux pas in cooking class today.
Jack Amster—Why do you make those silly French dishes?

Martha Ann—Miss Brody, how many calories in this soup?
Miss Brody—None, this is a clean place to eat.

Mary Mallory—Charlie has such a wonderful conversational ability.
Blanche Everbach—What does he talk about?
Mary—Me.

Kenny Taylor—I hear strange rappings! Is it spirits?
Mary Royse—No, Grandpa's knees.

HEARD AT SENIOR BLOTTER MEETING

I soaked Ray Lester for about ten minutes, then laid him out to dry but he curled up just like the rest of the seniors.

Lucille Paris—I must go to the Auditorium now, for I am going to sing "Thru the Briar."
Miss Ewing—You'll scratch your voice.

Edwin Burd—Can you keep this quiet?
Helen Royse—I'll tell the world!

Ruth Short—Parlez-vous francais?
Hardy Fawcett—I didn't get you.
Shorty—Parlez-vous francais?
Hardy—Clarify yourself.
Shorty—Do you speak French?
Hardy—Why, of course!

Calvin Tucker, who had been taking correspondence lessons in courtship, was out walking with Mary Elizabeth Short:

"Let's go pick violets."

"This time of year?"

"Oh hang it! I studied the wrong lesson."

Howard Fisher—Thomas Jefferson was a smart man.

Miss Rusk—He had the greatest mind that ever sat in the Presidential chair.

Mr. Cantwell in Physics Class—Hardin, tell the class what happens when the light goes out.

Hardin—I promised her I wouldn't tell.

MORE INNOCENCE THAN BLISS

Merylee—Oh John! I'm cold in this sedan.

John Richards—I'll close the window.

Evan McLinn—I don't mind High School but it's the principle of the thing.

Ruth Short (discussing Martha Washington costumes for Senior Girls)—Girls, now promise to wear a dress Monday.

Blanche Baker—Kenny got out of the wrong side of his bed and nearly killed himself.

Blanche Everbach—I don't believe in superstition.

Blanche Baker—He doesn't either, but he was in the lower berth of a pullman.

Kenneth Nunemacher—Suitcase.

HEARD IN BIBLE CLASS

Merylee—Say, where are you in Bible Class?

Bill Seibel—Oh, in the middle of Original Sin.

Merylee—That isn't much; we're past Redemption.

Miss Rusk—Can you tell me why tomorrow is called Good Friday?

Ruth Fertline—Because there won't be any school.

Jack Bulliet—I am losing my mind.

Mac—Why?

Jack Bulliet—I can't remember what I was worrying about.

Can you tell when Alkalies or what Sulphate?

Bill—How many brothers have you Midge?

Midge—Oh, let's see, two living and one married.

Miss Smith in English VII Class (studying "Twelfth Night")—Now, class, you see what the Duke has done; he has sent Cesario to Olivia to press his suit for him.

Jane Shrader—Is there anything worse than having a tooth ache and an ear ache at the same time?

Elmer Downs—Yes, rheumatism and St. Vitus dance.

Roosevelt—What's a good book to read?

Miss Smith—Hoosier Schoolmaster.

Dorothy H.—So your brother made the team.
Dorothy C. (proudly)—Well, no, he didn't make it, but of course he helped.

Mr. Gribble (teaching in girls auto mechanics class)—This car would not have been wrecked if the steering knuckle had held.
Ann Cureton—Which finger is this knuckle on?

Miss Sangernebo—What do we mean when we say, "The whole is greater than any of its parts?"
Lee McManus—A restaurant doughnut.

Question—How do you spell financially?
Answer—F-I-N-A-N-C-I-A-L-L-Y and embarrassed has two r's in it.

Mary B.—Does Mr. McLinn write for the Tribune?
Jane S.—I don't know, why?
Mary B.—Here's an article by "Mac."

PARLOR PARLANCE

They sat on the blue divan in the parlor. The red light cast a dim shadow on his hair and beaming face. He drew her toward his heart and gently patted her head. This made her so happy she snuggled closer and leaned her head against his coat collar.

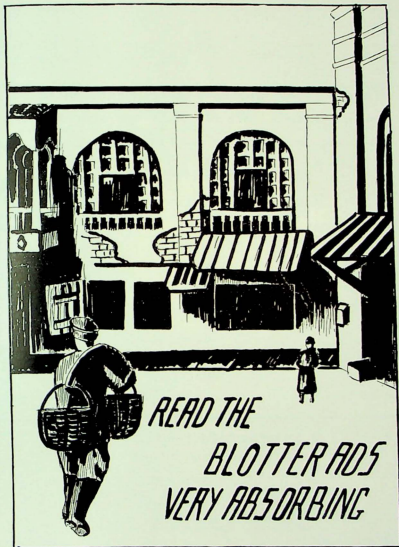

Half shocked he murmured, "Oh, you pretty thing! You know you shouldn't act like that with Harold." (But nevertheless he whispered soft things in her ear and settled back against the pillows).

From the next room the soft strains of a waltz floated in, and the breeze from the window nearby rippled through her golden hair. He stroked it passionately, and just then Mrs. Miller called from the dining room, "Where is Flossy?" Harold answered exultantly from the parlor, "Mother, I'm holding her."

As the door opened Flossy sprang from his arms and went racing from the room. She ran to Mrs. Miller who folded her arms about her and said, "You little scamp, you have been sitting on Harold's lap."

With a twinkle in her big blue eyes Flossy turned her head aside, switched her bushy tail, and meowed.

THE NEW ALBANY TRIBUNE IS FIRST CHOICE

IN MANY IMPORTANT PARTICULARS

First—It stands highest with New Albany readers.

Second—It ranks first with local advertisers.

Third—It ranks first with foreign advertisers.

Fourth—It ranks first in Job Printing.

These Statements Are Facts—Not Brag.

Subscribe For The Tribune—Read It—Advertise In It.

Yours To Serve—THE TRIBUNE COMPANY

IDLE TIME IS DANGEROUS TIME

Let your Child spend that Period on a Wind Instrument—because it will develop their Moral, Mental and Physical Natures—Without saying anything about the Profit and Pleasure derived from it. And, furthermore, it will prepare them for the fine Band they will find at College or the University. We not only teach, but sell them too.

See our line of Connors—the World's Best—before buying. We guarantee them. Let our twenty-five years of experience help you select the proper instrument, and we will take in your old instrument.
